Dr. Zane Ma Rhea

Associate Professor, Faculty of Education, Monash University
Editor, International Education Journal: Comparative Perspectives &
Co-President, Oceania Comparative and International Education Society (OCIES)

Short Bio of Speaker

Dr. Zane Ma Rhea is an Associate Professor in the faculty of education in the Monash University, Australia. She is the recently elected President of Oceania Comparative and International Education Society (OCIES) and the editor of the OCIES flagship journal International Education Journal: Comparative Perspectives published from the University of Sydney, Australia. Her research theorizes cross-cultural understandings of the cultivation of wisdom and examines how higher education and schooling are harming or supporting the sustainable education of wise, global citizens. Her teaching, supervision, and research spans organisational development, leadership development, professional skills development in mainstream service provision to Indigenous peoples, and theorising knowledge exchanges within complex, postcolonial democratic states. Her most recent publication is Leading and Managing Indigenous Education in the Postcolonial World (Routledge 2014).
